#McGill does not require the LSAT but will consider the score. Holistic indicates that the University will consider other factors in addition to the LSAT/GPA. These schools may consider in part: extracurricular experiences, volunteer work and work experience. Most universities use a rolling admissions procedure and will start choosing candidates once a complete application is received. Students applying under a special consideration category i.e. Mature, Aboriginal, Physical Challenged... should consult with each law school as the guidelines are different than what is indicated here. This information may change without notice. Students are encouraged to contact law schools for their official statistics. This study was conducted in September 2004.
